Dear Parents and Carers,

You may have heard your child mention phrases like “Show Me Stars,” “1,2,3 Eyes on Me,” or that they worked with their green or purple partner on Think–Pair–Share. Perhaps they proudly told you they were on “Flying High” today. These are all part of The Worlledge Way—our whole-school approach to routines and expectations and to the way we learn. Behaviours for learning are developed from the moment pupils join us in Reception and are key to preparing every child to be inquisitive and resilient learners.

At Edward Worlledge, we believe that consistent routines are key to creating a secure and focused learning environment. These strategies are used by all staff across the school and are designed to set high expectations while helping children feel safe and confident in knowing what is expected of them. This consistency allows pupils to concentrate on what matters most: their learning.

Thanks to this shared approach, children have made an excellent start to the academic year. Staff and visitors alike have recognised the positive atmosphere and purposeful learning happening throughout the school.

When pupils from Haven join mainstream lessons, these routines support their transition and help manage expectations. In Bure and Yare, staff thoughtfully adapt these strategies to meet the needs of their pupils—ensuring attention is secured, communication is encouraged, and deep thinking is fostered.

We are incredibly proud of what makes Edward Worlledge such a great place to learn and have attached a flier explaining these key routines and teaching approaches. Thank you for your continued support in helping us maintain these high standards.

Warm regards,

Mr C Honey
